RULES

Respecting the Medical Library of the Pennsylvania Hospital.

I. THE Books shall be lent out, only to the following persons, viz.

The Managers and Treasurer,

The Physicians of the Hospital,

Any person, who, either as Manager, Treasurer or Physician, may or shall have served the institution for a period not less than five years.

The particular students or apprentices for the time being, of the Hospital-Physicians. provided, as opposite

The resident pupils or apothecaries of the Hospital who may or shall have completed the full period of their indentures, to the satisfaction of the managers expressed by their certificate. And, all such students of medicine generally, as by purchase hold a certificate of right, or may hereafter acquire one.

II. The sum to be paid for a right or privilege during life, in the Library, conformably to its rules, shall, from and after the first day of the Sixth month 1806, be ~~thir-~~<sup>ty</sup> dollars, payable in one entire sum: but any person entitled to attend the practice of the Hospital for a season or a part of a season, may so long use the Library. The right, in neither case, to be transferable.

III. The Librarian shall see that all the books are duly labelled and numbered, and he shall carefully preserve a complete catalogue of them in numerical order. He shall attend on every Fourth and Seventh day morning, from nine till eleven o'clock, for the purpose of lending out and receiving books. He shall examine those returned, and if uninjured, immediately place them upon the shelves.

IV. A folio may be loaned for four weeks, a quarto three weeks, octavos and duodecimos, two weeks and no longer, unless the loan be renewed.

V. A deposit shall, in every instance, be left for all books lent, of at least one-third more than the value, which the Librarian is to estimate; and the borrower shall give a promissory note, specifying such deposit, and engaging to return the book undefaced, within the time by these rules limited; at the expiration of which, he may renew his note, and take the book again, if no other person apply for it; but if so applied for, the new applicant shall have the preference.

VI. In case a book be returned injured, the borrower must either pay for the injury, replace the book, or forfeit his deposit, and be deprived of the future use of the library.

VII. No individual can have more than two books out at one time, except the Physicians of the Hospital by written consent of the attending managers.

VIII. If any person take a book from the Library, without giving a note as prescribed by the fifth rule, he shall forfeit his privilege.

IX. A fine of twelve and a half cents per week shall be paid for every book kept beyond the proper limited time, and if the borrower do not return it in three months from the date of his note, it shall be deemed to be lost; in which case the deposit shall be forfeited and the book replaced, or its value paid by the borrower, in default whereof, his right to the Library shall be forfeited.

X. If a single book, not belonging to a set, should be lost, the borrower shall forfeit his deposit; and if one or more books belonging to a set or sets, should be lost, he shall also forfeit his deposit, take all the remaining volumes, and pay the full value of the whole set.

XI. Promissory notes are not to be returned, but cancelled by cutting off the signature. And when deposits are returned, receipts for the same shall be endorsed on the notes respectively.

XII. The Librarian shall keep, in a book provided for the purpose, an exact account of fines and forfeitures as they are incurred, and settle with the Steward for the same quarter-yearly.

XIII. In any case of doubt, respecting a violation of the foregoing rules, recourse must be had to the attending Managers and attending Physicians, whose determination shall be conclusive; but no Manager or Physician shall be allowed to judge in his own case. And if a determination cannot be obtained as above, the board of Managers shall decide.

XIV. The following books are not to be lent out of the Hospital: but they may be consulted by any person having a right, during the hours of loaning out books, viz.

Albinus's tables	Hooper's plates

Approved and established by the Board of Managers, 2d mo. 24th, 1806.

SAMUEL COATES, Secretary.

TO understand certain abbreviations used in the catalogue, the reader will observe, that those capital letters which follow the numbers after the names in Italics, indicate the size of the volume :

Thus	F.	. . . .	Folio
	Q.	. . . .	Quarto
	O.	. . . .	Octavo
	D.	. . . .	Duodecimo

And that p. signifies pamphlets.

Whence, Seybert, 294, O. vol. 17th, p. imports, that his dissertation is bound up in the seventeenth volume of a collection of pamphlets, to which that number has been affixed.

RULES

For the preservation and enlargement of the Anatomical Museum.

I. ALL the preparations now contained in the Museum, and such as may be added hereafter, shall be annexed to the Medical Library; and the expenses of increasing and preserving both, shall be paid out of the medical fund.

II. This fund is to consist of all monies arising from the right granted, to attend the practice of the Hospital; from the sale of certificates that such attendance was given during one or more seasons; from the use of the library; from fines and forfeitures under its rules; and from the exhibition of the Museum.

III. A right to attend the practice of the Hospital during a season or part of a season, to include so long the right of using the Library, subject to the rules in both cases, may be granted by the attending managers to all students of medicine who will pay ten dollars for the same. And with this right they will be entitled to attend any lecture or general demonstration which may be given in, or upon the contents of, the Museum.

IV. The privileges of the preceding Rule, not confined to a season, shall be extended gratis, to the apprentices for the time being, of the Hospital-Physicians, but no longer.

V. No medical student can have access to the Museum, unless attended by the Librarian, who is specially charged with the care of its contents.

VI. Every person not entitled to attend the practice of the house, shall pay one dollar for each view of the Museum. But this Rule shall not be construed to prevent the Managers, Treasurer, or Hospital-Physicians from inviting and accompanying any of their friends to a view of it.

VII. No person except a Physician of the Hospital shall ever lecture therein, unless by special contract with the attending Managers and Physicians ; and at such lecture, the Managers, Treasurer, Hospital-Physicians, their pupils, and the pupils of the house shall be permitted to attend.

VIII. For the benefit of the Hospital, and the better to qualify its resident pupils or apprentices to perform their duty therein, these shall have a right to attend gratis, during their apprenticeship to the institution, but no longer, as well the lectures in the Hospital, as every other lecture given by the Hospital-Physicians to their respective pupils.

IX. Any Hospital-Physician may, if he think proper, give a gratuitous lecture to the contributors, or other persons, with the approbation of the attending Managers.

X. No anatomical preparations shall ever be lent or taken out of the Hospital, unless it become necessary, to preserve them from destruction by fire.

XI. It shall be the duty of the attending Managers to report monthly to the board the state of the Museum.

XII. Every present made to the Museum or Library, shall be reported to the Managers, and recorded in their minutes. And whenever, by surgical operation, any stone, tumour, part, or substance whatsoever, may be extracted or separated from a patient under the care of the Hospital, the same, if meriting preservation, shall, as the property of the institution, be deposited in its Museum.

Approved and established by the Board of Managers, 2d mo. 24, 1806.

SAMUEL COATES, Secretary.
